The latest numbers suggest that more employers are and will be implementing mandatory vaccine policies as a condition of continued employment. At the same time, employers will likely need to address an increasing number of requests by employees for medical- and religious-based accommodations from those policies. This webinar will provide the latest legal and practical considerations for mandatory vaccine policies, and will specifically discuss:

- The nature of the process employers should utilize when considering a request for an accommodation based on a medical condition/disability or sincerely-held religious belief or practice
- Considerations when confronted with accommodation requests that do not fall within the medical- or religious-based categories
- Best practices and real-world fact patterns that may arise
