David Barron will be presenting at the Gulf Coast Symposium on HR Issues. COVID-19 has impacted the workplace in many ways that will be long-lasting, and likely lead to litigation. David will address topics such as working from home as a reasonable accommodation, employee testing and mandatory vaccines, litigation under the FFCRA, wage and hour issues related to remote work, and the anticipated increase in union organizing around safety and health. Get the latest updates on employment litigation trends and agency action at the federal and state level in response to the pandemic and its aftermath.
