Webinar

Date & Time

Start Date: 09/17/2024
 Start Time: 12:00 p.m. ET
 End Time: 1:00 p.m. ET

Kathy Jaffari participated in a panel discussion hosted by the American Bar Association that explored the topic of ESG materiality and its role in disclosure regulations and standards, including emerging trends, best practices, and case studies.

"Materiality" in the environmental, social, and governance (ESG) and sustainability reporting context is the principle of defining the topics that matter most to a business and its stakeholders. By identifying and understanding their material ESG issues, businesses can better align their sustainability strategy with overall business strategy and stakeholder expectations, focus efforts and often-limited resources on the most impactful issues, and improve their ESG and sustainability performance and disclosures.
