

More companies suspend vaccine mandates, including hospitals and Amtrak

Thursday, December 16, 2021

David Barron spoke with DNYUZ about why some employers are not mandating the COVID-19 vaccine. That likely factored into some health care systems' choices to reverse vaccine mandates, according to David. "Most employers do not have the luxury of losing 5 percent, or 10 percent, or whatever percent of their workforce doesn't want to get vaccinated," he said. "In this environment, it's very tough, especially in jobs like health care or other industries where it's a very tight labor market."

To read more of this article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Labor & Employment