Josh represents international and domestic insurers as litigation and coverage counsel in first-party property matters. He focuses his practice on issues arising out of, but not limited to, construction risks and defects, renewable energy losses, natural disasters, and fraud. Josh is also well-versed in handling related time element losses and bad faith claims. He is a trusted adviser in developing litigation strategies, evaluating and reducing risk, interpreting policy language, and claims handling.

Before joining the firm, Josh was an associate with a Global 100 firm, where he also focused on first-party property insurance coverage matters. Before that, he was an associate with a leading national firm, where he represented financial institutions, large corporations, and insurance companies in a wide range of complex commercial disputes, including business torts, breach of contract, health care litigation, breach of fiduciary duty, fraud, false advertising, and ADA accessibility claims.

Josh earned his B.A. from the University of Delaware and his J.D. from the Syracuse University College of Law.

Experience

Secured pre-answer dismissal of a lawsuit filed by insureds seeking indemnity for approximately $1.8 million in property damage. In dismissing the case, the court accepted our argument that the insureds' failure to comply with the policy's notice provision precluded reimbursement as a matter of law.
