John Ho and Richard Kalson will present “State of Play: Federal OSHA Update” for the Foundation and Marine Contractors Association of New England. Rick and John will discuss key OSHA legal developments and provide insight into what employers can expect under the current administration. They will review current OSHA enforcement initiatives, recent and expected regulatory changes including, but not limited to, electronic recordkeeping, PPE in construction, heat stress, and OSHA’s worker walkaround rule, and discuss whether these rules have been or may likely be withdrawn or modified. They will also provide summaries of key case law developments in areas such as general contractor liability for subcontractor employees and individual personal liability for OSHA citations, as well as practical considerations for employers as they begin to navigate the rapidly changing landscape of OSHA.
