Prior to joining Cozen O'Connor, Paul co-founded Gilchrist & Rutter in 1983 and practiced law until 2006, at which time he joined a publicly held REIT client as an executive vice president. After working as an executive vice president and then as co-chief operating officer and general counsel in two publicly held real estate companies from 2006-2014, and the merger of his company into another publicly held REIT, Paul returned to his law practice in January 2014. He combines his legal and business experience to provide clients with a unique perspective on the real estate industry and the practical and legal aspects of deals. Paul represents clients in both real estate and general business transactions, including development, financing, leasing, acquisition, and disposition of office, hotel, retail, mixed-use, and industrial properties as well as business formation, private equity investments, and general business transactions.

Paul's practice includes the formation, structuring, and documentation of business organizations involved in the ownership, financing, management, and development of real estate and operating businesses, joint ventures with private equity funds, pension funds, and other institutional capital, negotiation, and documentation of several million square feet of office, retail, and industrial leases, ground leases, development and management agreements, and consulting agreements for projects ranging from small local developments to large-scale projects involving several million square feet; representation of both borrowers and lenders on several billion dollars of real estate loans, including construction, bridge and permanent loans, and CMBS facilities; reciprocal easement agreements and CC&Rs for mixed-use and multi-phase projects; negotiation of construction, architectural, and engineering services agreements for several million square feet of retail, office, and hotel projects; development agreements and owner participation agreements with local governmental agencies; secured and unsecured loan workouts and restructuring.

Representative clients have included Maguire Properties Group, Thomas Properties Group, Inc., Commonwealth Partners, LLC, Buchanan Street Partners, J.P. Morgan Investment Management, Inc., McCarthy Cook & Co., Archon Group LP, the Los Angeles Grand Avenue Authority (a JPA formed by the County of Los Angeles and the Los Angeles CRA), and a regional transportation authority.

Representative deals include the development, financing and leasing of US Bank Tower, Gas Company Tower, and Wells Fargo Center in Los Angeles; the acquisition of several million feet of office space in Los Angeles and Orange County; the disposition of 50 acres of entitled land in El Segundo; the acquisition and sale of several office buildings in Texas, Virginia, and Philadelphia; the creation of a joint venture with a public pension fund for the acquisition of commercial real estate, the development of hotels in Pasadena, Dallas, and San Diego; the acquisition of a large portfolio of properties in California and Colorado; the negotiation of a $100 million bank line of credit for a public REIT; the negotiation of a ground lease and development agreement for a large-scale hotel, retail, condominium, and apartment complex; and negotiation and drafting of infrastructure funding agreements.

Paul is the author of several articles, has spoken at many seminars, and has been consulted as an expert witness in matters involving real estate valuation and disputes involving real estate transactions. He has been widely recognized for his work on behalf of the real estate industry. Among his many recognitions, Paul was named a Urban Development Lawyer of the Year in 2019 by Century City Bar

Experience

Represented an investment fund in connection with a preferred equity investment as rescue capital to restructure a fund with distressed loans coming due.

Represented building owners on drawdowns of letters of credit provided by tenants as security for lease performance.

Handled the restructure of multiple leases with one office tenant covering more than 600,000 sq. ft. in 2008.

Handled the restructure of a $50 million mortgage loan in the 2007 Great Recession following the bankruptcy of several tenants.

Represented a major real estate developer in connection with the restructure of an unsecured line of credit.

Negotiated with lenders on enforcement of payment and completion guaranties.

Worked with a lender on the modification of construction loan terms.

Negotiated the extension of the maturity date and modification of the interest rate with a bank on a Beverly Hills office project to allow owner retain the asset until the market recovered, resulting in large gain for the owner and complete repayment of the loan.

Worked with bankruptcy counsel to file voluntary bankruptcy to force the mortgage lender to restructure the debt on a 52-story, class-A office skyscraper in downtown Los Angeles.

Negotiated and documented "blend and extend" arrangements with mortgage lenders on several office buildings during the early 1990s recession.

Worked with CMBS special servicers to extend maturity dates on debt and ultimately consummate deeds in lieu of foreclosure on several buildings in 2007-2008.

Negotiated the restructure of a 10 office building partnership in Austin, Texas, including the infusion of new equity and the restructure of 10 mortgage loans.

Negotiated a restructure of both senior mortgage and multiple levels of mezzanine financing on twin office tower project in Los Angeles during the Great Recession.

Represented a bank in connection with making a permanent loan of $50 million, on a non-recourse basis, on a one million sq. ft. industrial/warehouse project in California's Central Valley. This representation involved extensively renegotiating the non-recourse carve outs with the borrower to protect the bank.
