

Effective Lateral Group Acquisition and Integration Can Spur Further Growth [The Legal Intelligencer]

Cozen O'Connor's director of lateral integration, Jill Caughie, was featured in the Law.com article "Effective Lateral Group Acquisition and Integration Can Spur Further Growth."

With 925 lawyers across 33 offices, the firm has significantly expanded its practice areas in the U.S. and Canada, including capital markets, intellectual property, real estate, construction, and more. In 2024, the firm added 41 member-level lawyers and government relations professionals.

A prime example of Cozen O'Connor's successful growth model is the construction law group, which began with a four-lawyer team in 2017 and has since expanded to over 60 lawyers. This group has achieved national and international recognition, including Chambers rankings and Law360's 2021 Practice Group of the Year.

The firm's entrepreneurial culture and dedicated lateral integration support have been key to its growth and success, highlighting commitment to talent investment, lateral partner recruitment and integration.
