

Tips For Employers Reeling From The Texas Weather Crisis

Friday, February 19, 2021

David Barron was quoted in Law360 discussing the severe cold weather crisis in Texas. David noted that the mental health fallout of the Texas crisis might set in gradually. "Lots of people's struggle is not going to end when the power comes on and the water comes back on," he said. "So I think from that standpoint, there's going to be lots of individual employees that have issues getting back to work, or missing work, performance issues because of mental health, or particular personal problems."

To read more of this article, click here.

Related Practice Areas

- Labor & Employment