

More Trouble Than They're Worth?: The (In)Effectiveness of Restrictive Covenants

Location

Marriott Marquis Washington, D.C.
901 Massachusetts Ave NW
Washington, D.C.

Date & Time

Start Date: 05/03/2023
Start Time: 9:00 am
End Time: 10:15 am EDT

Janice Sued Agresti will present at the National Employment Law Council Annual Conference. Janice will join a panel to discuss the current state of restrictive covenants and the FTC's proposed rule banning non-compete agreements, and the implications of state legislation severely restricting the use of non-compete and other restrictive covenants. They will weigh the arguments for and against various restrictive covenants employers can utilize to combat unfair competition, and review drafting considerations, particularly for remote workers.

Sponsor

National Employment Law Council

 Share  Post

ATTORNEYS

Janice Sued Agresti

Associate

 jagresti@cozen.com

 (212) 453-3978

RELATED PRACTICES

Diversity, Equity & Inclusion
Labor & Employment

